

Up next is ANOTHER ABC show cancelled, not for lack of originality, but rather a lack of audiences, much like the afore mentioned Sports Night and Homicide. Once & Again is, in my opinion, the best primetime drama in years, ousting The West Wing and Law & Order and every other attempt at realistic theater. Luckily, this show went on a few seasons before pulling the plug, giving audiences the chance to see growth in the characters and allowing them to get thoroughly involved with the entire family of Once & Again. A beautifully written and even more beautifully acted show, Once & Again is deserving of this second round that will, hopefully, open TV watching audience's eyes to a stunning and heartbreaking show with a stellar cast.
